

WILSON BELIEVES PEACE IS FAR OFF.

House Tells President Public Opinion in Warring Nations Will Act Strongly Against Any Compromise.

New York, June 24.—President Wilson does not see any prospect for an early peace in Europe. Colonel E. M. House, his unofficial envoy to Europe, gave the president today the results of his sojourn of several months in European capitals, where he talked intimately with the responsible officials of the German, British and French governments, and the information he imparted in the long walks and talks which he enjoyed today reflected definitely the ideas held by both diplomats and the military element in each of the countries at war.

Wilson Guided by House. The president has been guided largely by what Colonel House has reported to him by cable and letters in handling the delicate question of renewing the efforts of the United States to bring about a general acceptance of mediation. Mr. Wilson himself said last Tuesday that no new tenders of good offices had been made since the war began, but that all foreign governments understood the willingness of the United States to be of service in any way possible to save the way for an approach to peace.

House learned, which has affected the efforts of the United States to make peace, is the unpopularity of public opinion in some of the belligerent countries. The president said that already are discussed. Colonel House observed that public opinion in some countries had learned in various ways would not be acceptable to their opponents.

In all countries Colonel House found that there had developed among the masses a desire for a settlement that would be commensurate with sacrifices made by the people. It left to the diplomats in Europe alone a return to the territorial status quo, which would not be difficult, some of the information indicated.

Freedom of the Seas. In Germany it seemed, according to information given to the president, that the object of a large and influential party was to prepare public opinion for a realization of the idea that Germany's best interests lie in colonial expansion and the incidental development of overseas commerce, rather than in territorial extension in Europe proper. The question, however, which Colonel House thinks likely will play a most important part in any peace negotiations is "freedom of the seas," the principle that the property of all private citizens except contraband shall be exempt from capture or seizure on the high seas in time of war.

At this point was discussed at the first and second Hague conferences and at the London naval conference, which brought forth the so-called "declaration of London," but no general ratification or agreement was obtained. The American delegations to the first and second Hague conferences were entrusted to vote for the adoption of this principle.

Colonel House is known to be a supporter of the "freedom of the seas" principle in his discussion of the subject, while abroad there is some reason to believe that he had the same feeling. The president, however, said that the United States would make a formal statement tonight on their conference.

One-half of the 12,000 firms which took place in New York city last year were traceable to carelessness.

COUNCIL OF ADVISERS CREATED BY DANIELS

Secretary of Navy to Discontinue Meyer's System of Aids.

Washington, June 24.—Creation of "the secretary's advisory council" in the navy department, to include the assistant secretary, the chief of operations, the bureau of naval construction, the bureau of naval armaments and other naval officers was announced tonight by Secretary Daniels. At the same time the secretary made known his intention to discontinue the system of aids originated by his immediate predecessor, Secretary Meyer, a step forecast by the establishment of the new office of chief of operations.

Captain Josiah S. McKean, now commanding the battleship North Dakota, has been designated assistant for material to the chief of operations. Captain McKean previously had been named as assistant for operations. Under the present organization at the department, the advisory council will be composed of Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, Rear Admiral Benson, chief of operations; the following bureau chiefs: Rear Admiral Sims, navigation; Rear Admiral Strauss, ordnance; Rear Admiral Griffin, steam engineering; Rear Admiral Taylor, construction and docks; Rear Admiral McGowan, armaments; and Rear Admiral Stratford, medicine and surgery. Major General H. H. Hartwell, commander of the marine corps, and Captain H. H. McLean, justice advocate general of the navy.

The council will meet with the secretary every Thursday and often on other days. Captain George H. Clark, who has been developing the naval education system, aid for education, will become a member of the naval committee. He will succeed Captain John J. Knapp, lately assigned to the command of the Philadelphia navy yard. The educational work will be carried on under the bureau of navigation. The work of the other aids, as mapped out under the old system, already had been absorbed by other offices.

"I do not believe," said Secretary Daniels tonight, "that the navy bureau chiefs ever so universally recognized as master of the profession of work under their special direction as now. I have learned to rely upon the men who will compose this council."

FRENCH AIR MINISTRY ATTACKED BY DEPUTY

Accumbray Raises Storm by Declaring Administration Has Proved Inefficient.

Paris, June 24.—Animated scenes occurred in the chamber of deputies today when M. Accumbray, raising the war appropriation, criticized the ministry of war. He declared defects had been proved in shell-making, objections and protests from various parts of the chamber directed at him and the president reminded the speaker he must confine his remarks to the question under discussion.

M. Accumbray declared the sanitary services of the army were responsible for the deaths of many soldiers. He regretted, he said, that the national resources were being extravagantly dissipated, and deplored the lack of foresight displayed in preparing for adequate supplies and munitions.

The minister of war, he declared, content to no longer train soldiers sufficient to fit him for general direction of the army's supply services.

Protests frequently interrupted M. Accumbray. The socialist deputy declared him. Feeling among members rose and the minister rose to his feet. He did not wish to criticize the leadership of the minister, but solely the cabinet.

Premier Viviani admitted that the minister was making mistakes, but that it was always willing to correct them. He said that the minister was not a man of a way to go to war, but that it was his right to come and go and observe the entire situation of the nation. He was received with great applause.

"That is the very spirit of the republic," cried M. Accumbray. Premier Viviani continued, frequently interrupted by the socialist deputy, urging unity of action. He said, "I have no time for words of pessimism. France will go to the very end. The war will be hard and it may be long, but we shall go through it. We have a great army, admirable leaders and the nation possesses patience and confidence incomparable."

The members of the chamber who stood as they listened to the oration broke into uncontrollable applause and cheers as the premier concluded. The deputies pressing forward to congratulate him.

Chamber in Disorder. M. Accumbray sought the floor again despite vociferous protest, deputies in all parts of the chamber crying out, "That's enough. He finally succeeded in making his point. He called out a voice from the gallery. The president of the chamber calmed the great majority of the members. The premier then arose and the interruptions continued until he finally sat down.

Premier Viviani then arose and the interruptions continued until he finally sat down. The premier expressed his regret that M. Accumbray had not interpolated the government in the usual parliamentary manner.

U. S. NOTE REITERATES DEMANDS IN FRYE CASE. Washington, June 24.—The reply of the United States to the last German note regarding the case of the American ship William P. Frye, sunk by the commerce raider Prinz Eitel Friedrich, was dispatched to Berlin today.

In substance, the note reiterates the contention that the sinking of the Frye was in violation of international law and that the Prussian-American treaty of 1923, and asks for reparation without reference to the court proceedings. Germany has agreed to make reparation under the treaty of 1923, but justifies the destruction of the Frye as having referred the case to a prize court.

BRYAN MAKES ADDRESS ON PEACE IN NEW YORK. New York, June 24.—William Jennings Bryan made a speech tonight under the auspices of the Peace League, an organization of various societies of Americans, in Madison Square Garden. He spoke in favor of either side, but in favor of peace for the United States and against war with any of the belligerent nations.

Mr. Bryan reiterated his views regarding his proposal to submit all disputes to an international commission. After Mr. Bryan spoke, the meeting passed a resolution calling on the government to place an embargo on the exportation of arms and ammunition.

bombarded Arras, the hospital of the Red Cross being particularly damaged. Some soldiers and some of the wounded were killed.

In front of Bompierre, west of Arras, the German army made a mistake was followed by a violent bombardment on the part of the enemy. An attack on the German position was easily checked by the British.

On the heights of the Meuse, at the Calonne (France), there has been a change in the situation. We are maintaining our positions in a portion of the second German line.

At Lorraine, the German line was broken. The enemy delivered a counter attack. After a rather spirited engagement they were repulsed.

On the west of the front last night passed quietly. The number of prisoners made since June 14 in the region of the Focht river amounts to twenty-five officers, fifty-three under-officers and 433 men.

AUSTRIANS ATTACK ITALIAN POSITIONS. Rome, June 23.—(Via Paris, June 24.)—An official statement issued tonight says: "Along the entire front there has been an artillery duel between pieces of heavy and medium caliber. The enemy endeavored last night to attack particularly Montebello, Val Grande, Val Piccolo, Crescenova, (situated between Pizzoccolo and Val Grande) and Crestavento, which had been occupied by our troops yesterday."

During the night of June 21-22 and the following day, the enemy made three desperate attacks against our positions at Predoel. All these attacks were repulsed successfully. The enemy left 300 bodies on the battlefield.

The bay of Ilesso preparations are being made by the Austrians for the installation of a cable line, which will connect the neighboring heights conveying the upper Ilesso.

In the Montenegro region and along the Ilesso the bay of June 23 passed quietly.

TEUTONS VICTORIOUS ON UPPER DNIESTER. Vienna, June 24.—(Via London.)—The following official communication was issued by the war office today: "The general situation in the eastern Galicia is unchanged. To the east and northeast of Lemberg, battles with strong Russian rear guards are proceeding. The enemy left 300 bodies on the battlefield."

On the northern bank of the Dniester, between the Vistula and the San, the enemy continued to retreat. North of the Vistula the Russian rear guards are being driven beyond the Kamienka river. Our troops occupied Ostrovetz and Sandomierz.

In the Italian war theater, on the Carinthian frontier, a strong attack of Italian troops near Pail (east of Ploeken pass) was repulsed. Otherwise, on these frontiers and those of Tyrol only artillery engagements occurred.

In the region of Krn calcevali. On the Isonzo river there is heavy artillery fighting. Italian attacks near Gorizia and Monfalcone failed."

ALLIES MAKE GAINS AGAINST THE TURKS. Paris, June 24.—An official note made public here today giving details of land operations on the north side of the Marne between the French and British troops.

On June 23, the French and British troops made a series of attacks along a front of over a mile. The British troops took more than 1,000 prisoners and captured a Turkish redoubt, which still held out. They took also further positions situated on the right and the left of the first line of trenches, and gained ground approximately 500 yards in depth.

The French charged simultaneously with the British against the Turkish positions situated in front of Kereves. The first line was taken, as was also a Turkish fortress which, with the citadel, was heavily fortified by barb wire entanglements. We called this fort "Harcourt."

The result of our attacks gave us an advance ranging from 150 to 200 yards along a lateral front of two kilometers to mile and one-half. British troops took 500 prisoners, including ten officers and seven German machine gunners who had formerly belonged to the German warships Goeben and Brézel, vessels which, since the war, have been under the Turkish flag.

ARNO MAY BE NEXT STATE GAME WARDEN

Reported at Capitol That Gov.
Harris Will Appoint
Camden Man.

While the appointment of state game commissioner by Governor-elect Nat Harris does not take place until next December, which is a little far ahead for definite announcements, it is not at all improbable that Charles S. Arno, of Camden, Ga., will succeed Charles Davis, the present incumbent to that office.

Judge Harris has come to no conclusion about his appointment to the office of adjutant general. When asked about this appointment he said that he is waiting to get a little closer to the general sentiment of the militia before he decided upon this appointment.

Judge Harris is a great friend of the militia and will naturally want the utmost harmony and co-operation between the organizations and the state-house department.

He will touch upon the question of the state's militia in his message to the general assembly and make recommendations for its improvement in such instances as are compatible with the state's present financial condition.

Aged Citizen Finds Trouble on His Trip To "Divine Healer"

Believed He Would Regain
Sight, But Claims Georgia
Railway and Power Company
Delayed His Arrival.

As the blind and others afflicted with diverse diseases encountered insurmountable difficulties when about to step into the troubled waters of the medicinal pool at Jerusalem, so did James Reid, aged citizen of Clarkston, Ga., fail of regained sight when the Georgia Railway and Power company, through alleged negligence, did not carry him to the stopping place of the "Divine Healer," recently visiting Atlanta.

Though he arrived at her doorstep and there talked with this widely known woman of wonderful powers, he came too late to become a beneficiary of her healing and in a suit filed yesterday in the Fulton county courts, asks $1,000 of the street car company for his continued condition of blindness.

Sympathizing neighbors told the aged man of the "Divine Healer" of Bellwood avenue, and on April 5, with car fare furnished by friends, only sufficient to carry him and his small grandson to the healer's home, he set out to regain his sight.

When he attempted to board the Marietta car at Decatur and Pryor streets, he alleged, the conductor refused to take him on and the next conductor demanded car fare on the ground that the time limit of the transfer had elapsed. After paying the additional fare for himself and little guide to ride to Bellwood avenue, the conductor, the petition continues, caused the old man great inconvenience by carrying him to the end of the line and thus compelling him to walk for more than half the "Divine Healer's" house.

There she told him, he declares, that the hours within which her mysterious powers were in power were past, and advised him to return to his home in Clarkston, since she would leave for Chicago by an early morning train. The old blind man also sets forth that when he and his grandson reached Decatur again, their car fare was gone and it was 10 o'clock at night. He was brought him to Clarkston at 2 o'clock in the morning, since the way was rough and unfamiliar in the darkness to his guide, a boy 10 years old.

They will spend several days in Atlanta, stopping at the Piedmont hotel, after which they will go to Hamlet, where they will make their home. Mr. Carter and Miss Reid met in Atlanta more than a year ago when he was here upon business and she was visiting at the home of Mrs. E. A. Ballard. Mr. Carter is a car accountant for the Carolina, Atlantic and Western railroad.

Miss Reid met him at the Fulton county jail yesterday afternoon when he had been sentenced jointly with E. C. Mauldin to two years in prison for "doping" and robbing Luther O. Hazler, of East Point, in a Decatur street cafe recently. The woman heard sentence calmly, but upon being removed from the courtroom by attendants became hysterical. Pearl Couch will be sent to the state prison at Milledgeville and Mauldin will be assigned to one of the convict camps.

Outburst, Ga., June 24.—(Special).—The continued drouth in the immediate vicinity of Outburst has played havoc with the crops on the farms and the gardens in town. There has not been a rain, such as is called a "season," which means sufficient for the time being, since April 30.

Nearly all the gardens have been literally burned up. The bean crop in the gardens is almost a total failure. On the farm the cotton is growing fine, the continued sunshine assisting in a needed degree in the eradication of the grass from that crop. The weather has been exactly right for that crop, and if rains does not come in a day or two the amount which has been planted to date will be a total loss, instead of the large crop as expected. There has been a shortage of corn planted than usual, and already about half of the expected amount will be reaped is lost. The field peas of which a large amount has been planted have failed to come up, although they should have done so several days ago. It is feared that all that have been planted have been lost.

The early peanuts have come in, but the later ones have not. The early watermelons are coming up, all small, and if rain does not come the crop will be small.

A quantity of wheat has been threshed and sent to mills in nearby towns for grinding into flour. One man, Cliff V. Ehrig, about 3 miles from here, is planning to have not only a Georgia products dinner in the near future, but he intends for the entire menu to come from his own farm here, on which he is living.

MUCH PROGRESS MADE IN FIGHT ON SMOKE

J. M. Van Hartigan, chairman of the chamber of commerce committee on smoke abatement, made his report to the directors of the chamber at a luncheon which was held yesterday at noon. His report showed that, while the limit for dense smoke in Atlanta is 12 minutes, as against practically half that length of time in many cities, the abatement of the smoke products dinner in the near future, but he intends for the entire menu to come from his own farm here, on which he is living.

Smoke Inspector Pope appeared before the directors and made the broadening of the scope of the smoke ordinance and that the majority of those who have complied with it have found it an economy. He further indicated to the directors other smoke and said that his office was a prominent fact.

BOARD NAMED TO PICK DIXIE BEE LINE ROUTE

Evansville, Ind., June 24.—Delegates from eighteen counties in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee tried in vain at the Dixie Bee-line association's convention today to locate a route completing the highway from Chicago to Savannah, Ga.

After hours of debate, the 1,500 delegates voted to leave the question to a board of vice presidents, one from each of the counties represented. The board must perform its task by November 1, 1915. A resolution was adopted calling for completion of the route by January 1, 1917. The association elected Mayor Benjamin Bosse, of Evansville, president for the first year, with power to choose a vice president to succeed him.

The board of vice presidents will act as a governing body.

Three Brothers Represent Three Counties in House

There are three brothers in the Georgia house of representatives, all residing in different counties and different sections of the state.

The brothers are, Representative Nat D. Arnold, of Oglethorpe county; Representative R. J. Arnold, of Henry county; and Representative O. H. Arnold, of Clarke county.

John H. Fahy, of Boston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, told the delegates in an address that if publicity had characterized the dealings between the nations in Europe during the last fifty years, the present war would have been avoided.

"The power by which millions of minds may be turned to consideration of the same thing at the same time is a wonderfully useful influence," Mr. Fahy said. "The extent to which it is used is a measure of the civilization of a nation."

MACON TO PAY HONOR TO JUDGE NAT HARRIS

It has been decided that the inauguration of Governor-elect Nat Harris, of Georgia, will be held inside the state house. The inaugural exercises will take place Saturday in the hall of representatives before the house and senate in joint session.

The second regiment of the Georgia national guard, which had its headquarters in Macon, will act as official escort to Judge Harris during the inaugural exercises.

The second regiment will be met at the Terminal station by the Fifth regiment of Atlanta, and the Atlanta regiment will escort the Macon regiment to the governor's mansion.

The second regiment will then act as escort of the governor-elect to the capitol.

Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash will be the marshal of the day.

The second regiment is expected to arrive in Atlanta at 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

The oath of office will be administered to Judge Harris by Chief Justice

W. H. Fish, of the supreme court of Georgia.

Judge Harris stated last night that while he is glad to conform to the custom and the law in having the inauguration held in the hall of representatives, it will be a source of deep regret to him that many of his friends who will come to Atlanta to attend the inauguration may be unable to find room in the hall for the ceremony.

Macon Citizens Came.

More than 1,000 Macon citizens, including members of the Second regiment of Georgia national guard, will arrive in Atlanta tomorrow morning to honor their first chief magistrate.

There will be a parade through the city, headed by the drum and bugle corps and followed by the military companies. The members of the Fifth regiment of Atlanta will join with the Second and participate in the inaugural ceremonies.

The local regiment placed to play host to the 5th military men, who will be under the command of Major W. Philbrick Wheeler. Colonel Orville H. Hall will be in command of the Fifth regiment and Governor's Horse Guard, which will meet the Macon delegation at the Terminal station and escort them through the city.

After parading the streets and attending the inauguration, the Macon regiment will be served dinner at the Hotel Ansley. Two special trains will bring the Macon crowd to Atlanta. They will return late in the afternoon.

Georgia is Urged to Take Advantage of Opportunity Smith-Lever Bill Offers

Dr. A. M. Soule, head of the State Agricultural college at Athens, will call to the attention of the present session of the general assembly the importance of Georgia's qualifying by legal enactment and state appropriations, for accepting federal appropriations which will be available under the Smith-Lever bill adopted by the last congress, for the furtherance of agricultural education.

This was announced at a luncheon of the directors of the State Chamber of Commerce Thursday, when it also was brought out that, in addition to an annual federal appropriation of $150,000, the state will be able to get hundreds of thousands in federal appropriations for agricultural experimentation and instruction if the state will appropriate duplicate sums.

The Smith-Lever bill provides for an annually increasing appropriation through a period of six years, beginning with next year, the appropriation to be based upon rural population.

$27,000 Next Year.

Should Georgia qualify at this legislature she would get $27,000 next year in addition to the $150,000 flat appropriation, while seven years from now the would receive approximately $180,000 from the federal government.

At the luncheon of the directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Senator Hoke Smith addressed the directors upon the Smith-Lever bill, and urged that they lend their influence for the passage by the legislature of Georgia to take advantage of the federal assistance afforded.

As chairman of the chamber of commerce committee having the bill under consideration, Robert F. Maddox expressed his appreciation of the worth of the provision and pledged himself to do all possible to get proper legislation in Georgia.

Senator Smith outlined the progress of federal co-operation in agricultural education, showing that fifty years ago each state received funds for agricultural colleges, and that twenty-five years ago agricultural experiment stations were established in the states with federal aid.

Will Furnish Machinery.

"These," said Senator Smith, "have become largely a sort of cold storage plants of information, and the great difficulty in deriving the benefits from these institutions is in the lack of efficient machinery to convey the information to the farmers so that it may be put into practical use."

"It is the object of the what you call the Smith-Lever bill to furnish this machinery."

He explained how it is the plan under this bill to furnish expert farm demonstrators who shall go to the farms of farmers who cannot attend the agricultural colleges and work on their own farms for them the problems with which they are confronted. It is also planned to send trained women into the homes of farmers and show them how to better their home life. It is, in fact, a tremendous enlargement and co-ordination of the work being done by farm demonstrators, corn clubs and by similar agencies.

Senator Smith pointed out that in Germany, where this system has been performed, the small farmer today is keeping that nation alive.

"We do not want to stop," he said, "until the system is worked out in the United States better than it has ever been worked out before anywhere. The small farmer of this country is producing the maximum output for the land."

The Smith-Lever bill provides for an appropriation of $150,000 to each state the first year. After that appropriations are made upon an increasing scale. In addition to the $150,000, only upon condition, however, that the state which the appropriation is made to shall duplicate the amount.

The distribution is based upon rural population.

Senator Smith's Statement.

Senator Smith stated that if the Georgia legislature would qualify this state properly to take the appropriation under the Smith-Lever bill Georgia should receive in six years $1,800,000 in addition to the flat $150,000 appropriation. In six years this appropriation would increase to more than $1,800,000.

In other words, seven years from this Georgia would be getting from the federal government, all told for the year, about $1,800,000, on condition that the state duplicate by state appropriation the federal sum with the exception of the $150,000 flat appropriation each year.

Mr. Maddox indicated the manner in which the prosperity of the state depends upon the prosperity of the farmer. Mr. Maddox told of his recent trip to the agricultural colleges of the United States and of the wonderful things that are being done there.

"I never dreamed there was an institution in this country so badly handicapped by lack of funds," he said.
